Mayor misled McGuinty: Feds

Ford incorrectly told premier city needed $650M in provincial money for Sheppard subway to get Ottawa cash, spokesperson says

Mayor Rob Ford was incorrect when he told Premier Dalton McGuinty the city couldn't get $333 million from Ottawa for the Sheppard subway without $650 million from the province, a federal spokesperson said Thursday.

The Harper government already intends to give the city the $333 million, said Vanessa Schneider, spokesperson for Transport and Infrastructure Minister Denis Lebel.

The province would need to be a "partner" in any funding deal, she said, but would not necessarily need to contribute $650 million.

The $650 million in provincial money and the $333 million in federal money were tied together only under the former Transit City agreement to build light-rail transit (LRT) on Sheppard, Schneider said. Ford abandoned that agreement in favour of his subway plan.

"Basically, the conditions of the LRT agreement no longer exist," Schneider said in an interview.

A senior Ford official rejected any suggestion that Ford had misled McGuinty.

Advocate urges routine TTC fare hikes

Let's get this straight: Procar Mayor Rob Ford has told the TTC it can't hike fares to solve its budget problems. Meanwhile, the city's leading transit advocate is calling a fare freeze "madness" given the system's operating challenges.

Streetcar crusader and transit blogger Steve Munro believes predictable, moderate fare increases are preferable to service cuts, given that the TTC is facing an $85-million operating shortfall next year.

"If they have a fare freeze this year on top of other cuts they're contemplating, it will be disastrous … just at the time the system is doing so well," he said, referring to the 15-million more riders the TTC is anticipating next year.

Next year's TTC budget is being crafted against Ford's desperate financial pressures. After promising no service cuts and no layoffs, it's nearly certain the mayor will have to resort to both if he's going to close Toronto's 2012 operating shortfall, projected to be between $443 million and $774 million.

But there's reason to believe that a moderate hike wouldn't drive away riders, says Munro. He points out that the ridership losses expected after last year's 25-cent fare increase didn't materialize.

Via riders rail against changes

Main commuter traffic originates in London and Niagara Falls in the west, and Cobourg in the east

Via Rail commuters to Toronto are uniting to fight proposed ticketing changes that they say will make the system less flexible and convenient to them.

It also prevents them from gaining the same HST exemption and federal income-tax break granted to GO train and TTC pass users.

In reply, the company says that holding seats empty for commuters who might not show up is no way to run a railroad.

Typically, commuters buy open-ended tickets in packets of 20 — two weeks' worth — that allow them to board any train into work and home again.

Under proposed changes, slated for late fall at the earliest, commuters could still buy in bulk but would have to book each ticket for a specific time. A missed train would lead to a rebooking fee if a passenger didn't cancel before train time.

"We're just trying to manage that whole process a little bit better so we become more efficient."

VIA RAIL SPOKESMAN TED BYTALAN ON CUTTING EMPTY SEATS

The current system, said Via Rail spokesman Ted Bytalan, leaves too many seats empty when riders take a later train or stay home.

In June, Cobourg commuters sent Via Rail a petition of 160 signatures to complain of the changes.

Others took up the idea on the London-Woodstock-Brantford-Toronto route. They also organized a meeting with Via Rail officials in Brantford on Thursday.

The petitioning commuters are also demanding — from Ottawa — the HST exemption and federal income-tax breaks.

Police looking for abducted spouse

Peel police are searching for a woman they say was abducted by her estranged husband in Brampton

Peel police have arrested a man accused of abducting his wife early Thursday, although the woman is still missing.

Police found the truck the two were last seen in shortly after 7 a.m. at a parking lot near a hotel around Queen Street East and Rutherford Road in Brampton, not far from where Raquel Junio was abducted more than five hours earlier.

Macdermid Ermacora, 43, of Brampton was arrested, police said, but his wife was not in the truck.

"We're very concerned for her well-being at this point and we're just hoping that she is safe and that he'll tell us where exactly she is," said Const. George Tudos.

Police were told a man had forcibly confined a woman on Deerfield Crescent, in the Torbram Road and Balmoral Drive area, shortly after 1:30 a.m.

Witnesses saw a struggle as the woman was forced into a vehicle, police said.

"She was taken against her will," said Tudos. "She was struggling not to get taken away."

Next-door neighbour Sarah Duhart said she was awakened by a commotion about 1:30 a.m.

"I heard a little bit of yelling, but I didn't think anything of it," said Duhart, 23.

She said she went back to sleep, but police came knocking on her door about 3 a.m.

Tudos said police are using tracking dogs and the identification bureau in their hunt.

Since the truck has been found, police are concentrating their search in the Brampton area, Tudos said, adding that several people have reported spotting the vehicle in the area following the abduction.

"We're utilizing a lot of our manpower and we're hoping we can come up with some clues or come up with the victim and return her safe to her family," he said.

Police sealed off a phone booth on Queen Street near Rutherford Road, close to where the truck was found and where they say Ermacora apparently made a phone call early Thursday.

Tudos said it wasn't clear who the man had called or whether he had alerted police to his whereabouts.

What happened to the Goddess of Democracy?

Cheuk Kwan accompanied a guest to York University this week, hoping to show the visiting Hong Kong legislator a gold-painted statue commemorating the victims of the 1989 Tiananmen Massacre.

To Kwan's dismay and embarrassment, the 13-foot tall icon — normally standing in the lobby of the campus student centre — had vanished.

Its sudden disappearance had some wondering: Could the statue's removal possibly be the result of some sinister political pressure from the Chinese government? Or was it carted off simply because, as university administrators contend, the figure was attracting fruit flies?

Not only was the statue removed, it appears it was tossed out with the trash.

"The Goddess replica is an iconic symbol of China's democratic movement. We're upset that they just threw it into a scrap pit," said Kwan, chair of the Toronto Association for Democracy in China, the donor of the statue created by York fine arts students.

Kwan had later learned the statue was removed just prior to the Monday visit of Cheuk Yan Lee, an outspoken critic of the Chinese government.

"The first thing that came to our minds was whether this was a political manoeuvre under pressure from Chinese officials."

The original statue in China was built by Beijing Fine Arts Academy students at the height of the democratic movement in Tiananmen Square that was later crushed by army tanks on June 4, 1989.

‘I’m not him. No, really, I’m not’

@michaelbolton isn’t who you think he is @rogers can’t fix your cable @robford is not selling the zoo

CONTRIBUTED

▶ The real Michael Bolton

Michael Bolton remembers the day he discovered Michael Bolton.

It was 1985, and he was in a record shop in Sudbury.

“I remember thinking two things,” said the 50-year old software consultant from Toronto. “‘Oh my God, I hope he’s not successful,’ and ‘If he is, my life is ruined.’”

As Michael Bolton unbuttoned his denim shirt and let his long hair blow in the wind for ’90s music videos, the Toronto Bolton dealt with the repercussions. Every time he rented a car, there was a pause, a laugh, a comment.

Now, more than 25 years later, there is another wrinkle in the forced relationship: Twitter.

Toronto’s Michael Bolton signed up for Twitter first, and he’s not willing to relinquish the username @michaelbolton, even if it means receiving random messages about his lovely voice or requests for autographs.

On Twitter, simple usernames are important when you’re building a brand. Since selling a name is technically against the rules at Twitter, whoever gets there first gets the name, even if they’re not famous.

Bolton says he has been approached for his name, but he won’t give it up. “My colleague said, ‘Don’t you have a heart? ... Give it up. Where’s your humanity, man?’”

The same goes for Glenn Rogers, a senior interactive producer in Brooklyn, N.Y. He signed up for Twitter when it was a start-up and chose @rogers, because it was simple. Every day, he receives up to 100 misdirected tweets.

“One of my most memorable was NBA player Steve Nash tweeting that he was on his way to @Rogers centre to his thousands of fans.”

He says Rogers approached him to cede the handle a year ago, but he wasn’t interested. He likes the shortness. He finds it amusing.

So, too, does Rob Ford, director of technology at a Massachusetts school board.

“My wife and I always get a good chuckle from tweets like ‘@robford wants to cut $700M+ including selling the zoo.’ If my three-year-old ever found out I was selling a zoo she would be heartbroken.”

Taller, faster, steeper, yaaaaaaaaaaay!

A roller-coaster being built at Canada’s Wonderland will be vying for a coveted title in the race to build the world’s tallest, fastest, steepest thrill rides.

The Leviathan, which will stand 93.3 metres tall and accelerate up to 148 kilometres per hour, is set to debut next May.

The 139-metre Kingda Ka at Six Flags theme park in New Jersey holds the title as the world’s tallest coaster. Fastest belongs to the Formula Rossa in Abu Dhabi, which rockets to an astonishing 240 kilometres per hour. And Japan recently unveiled the steepest ride, the Takabisha, with a free falling angle of 121 degrees.

▶ Artist’s rendering of the Leviathan

So which record is the Leviathan looking to break?

“It will be the tallest and fastest coaster in Canada,” Wonderland spokeswoman Dineen Beaven said.

The $28-million Leviathan will be Wonderland’s only giga-coaster, a term used to describe rides more than 91.4 metres tall, and the park’s 16th in total. Only California’s Six Flags and Cedar Point, in Ohio, have more coasters, Beaven said.

“It’s great to be able to rank with them,” she said. “We have a really wide variety, which is what I think makes our park appealing.” TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Let’s roll

- Swiss firm Bollinger & Mabillard is designing the Leviathan. It also created the Behemoth for Wonderland in 2008.
- The Behemoth currently holds the record for tallest and fastest ride in the country. The Leviathan will tower 23.3 m over its sister coaster and travel 23 km/h faster.

Chile dictatorship's victim list grows

About 32,000 gave testimony 9,800 recognized as victims of torture or other human rights violations

Chile officially recognized 9,800 more victims of its dictatorship on Thursday, increasing the total number of people killed, tortured or imprisoned for political reasons to 40,018.

A similar effort in 2004 determined that 27,153 survivors deserve monthly compensation from the government for human rights violations they suffered.

Chilean President Sebastian Pinera accepted the official victim list on Thursday, which includes 3,065 people who were killed by Chile's military or were simply made to disappear and are presumed dead.

Survivors of rights violations will get lifetime pensions of about $260 US a month. Relatives of those killed receive more than three times that amount. In all, the government will need to increase its compensation to about $123 million US a year.

SANTIAGO LLANQUIN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ Former dictator Gen. Augusto Pinochet

Victims also are entitled to health, education and housing benefits.

The National Commission on Political Imprisonment and Torture was created by Pinera's predecessor, Michelle Bachelet.

The previous total was tallied in 2004 in an effort led by bishop Sergio Valech.

Chile had tallied the dead under President Patricio Alywin, Chile's first democratically elected leader following the 1973-1990 dictatorship. Both efforts were praised for helping Chile's democracy settle unpaid debts.

However, Valech's commission was criticized because one of its establishing principles was to keep secret for 50 years the identities of those responsible.

Top nations tell Assad: Go

U.S. President Barack Obama and the leaders of Canada, Britain, France, Germany and the European Union sent this message to Syrian President Bashar Assad on Thursday: Resign — you're not fit to lead.

"The Assad regime has lost all legitimacy," said Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

Assad "is imprisoning, torturing and slaughtering his own people," Obama said.

The dramatic messages from Ottawa, Washington, London, Paris, Berlin and Brussels were accompanied by a UN demand that the International Criminal Court probe Assad's brutal suppression of his people.

Meanwhile, tough new U.S. sanctions froze all Syrian government assets in the U.S. and targeted the country's lucrative energy sector.

30

U.S. sanctions have already hit more than 30 Syrian regime officials, including Assad himself and members of his inner circle, as well as firms.

The moves intensified already mounting pressure on Assad, who has refused to ease his regime's ruthless crackdown on a five-month-old opposition uprising.

He has unleashed his security forces on numerous cities, killing nearly 2,000 people, many of them innocent civilians.

Savagery out of Sinai as gun gangs attack

Buses, cars and an army patrol hit as fighters target southern Israel
Israeli aircraft bomb Gaza in retaliation Airstrike kills a child

It was one of the boldest attacks on Israel in years.

Squads of gunmen armed with heavy weapons and explosives crossed into southern Israel on Thursday and attacked buses, cars and an army patrol.

Israel said the Palestinian assailants from Gaza killed eight people after crossing through Egypt's Sinai Peninsula.

Exchanges of gunfire across the Israel-Egypt border continued late into the evening. But it wasn't clear whether assailants were still at large within Israeli territory, Deputy Defence Minister Matan Vilnai said.

GETTY IMAGES

The attacks stoked concerns that Palestinian militants might be exploiting instability in Egypt.

Security in the Sinai desert, dominated by Bedouin tribes, has deteriorated sharply since February when longtime leader Hosni Mubarak was ousted in a popular uprising.

"The incident underscores the weak Egyptian hold on Sinai and the broadening of the activities of terrorists."
EHUD BARAK, ISRAELI DEFENCE MINISTER

Many Israelis saw Mubarak as a source of stability.

Within hours of the attacks, Israeli aircraft bombed southern Gaza in retaliation — and Gaza medical official Adham Salmia said five militants and one child were killed in a strike on a private home.

The attacks on Israelis began at midday and appeared co-ordinated.

Israeli security forces tracked down some of the assailants and killed seven in a gun battle, military spokesperson Lt. Col. Avital Leibovich said.

Defence officials said three of the bodies were booby-trapped.

In November, Israel began erecting a fence along the border with Egypt, in part to keep out Islamic militants in Sinai.

The fence, which is to take up to two years to build, will cover at least 140 kilometres of the 250-kilometre boundary.

Ambushed bus stained with blood

It was shortly after noon in southern Israel and a civilian bus was heading toward the Red Sea resort city of Eilat.

Suddenly, it was ambushed by gunmen armed with automatic weapons, grenades and suicide bomb belts.

"We heard a shot and saw a window explode," said passenger Idan Kaner.

Then came another shot. "There was chaos in the bus …everyone jumped on everyone else," Kaner said.

TV video showed the bus with its windows shattered.

Its seats were stained with blood. Luggage littered the aisle.

Rich Chinese youth live the good life

For China's super-rich 20-somethings, who have now swapped bicycles for Bentleys, it's party time every day

METRO WORLD NEWS IN BEIJING

JORDAN POUILLE/METRO WORLD NEWS

▶ Bejing traffic is too slow for Zhang Kuan's $500,000 Lamborghini Murciélago. It's his 28th car.

"There's way too much traffic in Beijing for car racing," complains Zhang Kuan, while parking his plateless, neon-green Lamborghini Murciélago in front of the Workers Stadium in the city's swanky upscale district of Sanlitun. Zhang, 30, has changed his car 28 times since he's been old enough to drive. "My girlfriend drives a matte Bentley, and the couple we hang out with have a Ferrari California. Each."

Not too shabby for two 25-year-olds; it's no wonder why Ferrari is doubling its sales year-on-year in China.

Zhang says he's a board member of a Beijing-based asset-management company. "Basically, I give loans to entrepreneurs I like," he gloats.

But don't dare ask about his family background. In Zhang's words, "that's not a foreigner's business." And you can forget about finding out his views on China's yawning wealth gap between the rich and poor.

"When it comes to making money, all men are equal on the starting line," he says.

A sense of moral obligation — whether genuine or feigned — for youngsters to spend their parent's cash is the catalyst for this burgeoning conspicuous consumption, Wang Feng from Beijing's Brookings-Tsinghua Center for Public Policy tells Metro.

"These spoiled kids feel they have a call of duty to spend their family fortune as their parents have no idea how to spend it," Wang says.

Keeping it quiet

In mainland China, censorship has prevented details of party leaders' family businesses from being aired. Very little is mentioned on the country's Internet on Premier Wen Jiabao's wife's leading role in the jewelry industry or on his son's private equity firm New Horizon Capital.

Pope blames greed for youth agony

Young people worry for future as they search for work during the economic crisis, Benedict XVI says

Pope Benedict XVI denounced the profit-at-all-cost mentality that he says is behind Europe's current economic crisis as he arrived in hard-hit Spain on Thursday. He said morals and ethics must play a greater role in formulating economic policy in the future.

Benedict made the comments as he travelled to Madrid for the Catholic Church's World Youth Day, a weeklong Catholic festival that is taking place against a backdrop of the European debt crisis and social unrest among the young that exploded recently in the riots in Britain.

Benedict said the crisis and sense of desperation among young people proved that ethics have been increasingly left out of formulating economic policy at local and international levels. He said the current crisis shows that a moral dimension isn't "exterior" to economic problems but "interior and fundamental."

"Man must be at the centre of the economy, and the economy cannot be measured only by maximization of profit but rather according to the common good," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Faith in job search

- Unemployment in Spain is nearly 21 per cent — the highest in the eurozone.
- The Pope urged young people to keep fast in their faith. "With God beside them, they will possess light to walk by and reasons to hope," he said.

Catholics probe string of deaths

74 children died at two institutes over three years, almost 60 years ago Archives scoured for evidence

A Dutch Catholic institute for disabled girls said Thursday it will review 40 deaths at the children's home in the early 1950s.

The review comes days after prosecutors began a criminal investigation into 34 deaths at a former Catholic boys' institute in the same town and the same time period.

The mysterious rash of deaths came to light during a search of Catholic church archives by a commission investigating possible sexual abuse.

There is no evidence that the deaths in the southern town of Heel was investigated for common threads or links to each other.

Guus Feron, director of the St. Anna's girls institute, said the institute routinely destroyed dossiers 15 years after residents left or died. He said one possibility would be finding records of a contagious illness.

Eugene Baak, spokesman for the regional public prosecutor's office, said the girls' deaths are not currently thought to be suspicious.

Prosecutors said that even if they find evidence, they are unlikely to be prosecuted due to the passage of time. Suspects may have died, and statutes of limitations apply to crimes other than murder.

Tourists got his goat

TYROL. No buts about it — this billy goat was a pain in the butt.

Austrian state broadcaster ORF reports a German tourist couple had their hands full for three hours with a goat that wouldn't quit attacking them.

To stop the butting, Steffen Prill was forced to grab the beast by the horns — and hold on.

Prill says he literally dragged it down the mountain slope they were hiking on. He and Anja Buder, his wife, said Thursday that every time Prill let go, the horned assaults continued.

Police called to the scene finally soothed the animal. There were no serious injuries — but ORF, citing police, says the goat's owner will have to pay for Buder's ripped trousers.

STORM FLATTENS

Three-day Belgian open-air festival's international lineup included Foo Fighters, Eminem, The Offspring

A storm swept through a popular open-air music festival in a town in eastern Belgium on Thursday killing at least three people and injuring more than 70 others, an official said.

Ambulances and police cars raced to and from the site of the Pukkelpop festival, near the town of Hasselt, east of Brussels, late Thursday, their sirens blaring.

Concertgoers described scenes of panic as the sky darkened, the winds whipped, rain poured, hailstones larger than one centimetre across pelted the crowds, and concert structures buckled.

"It was frightening. It looked terrible. All the structures collapsed," said Brinnie Gardner, 20, of Aukland, New Zealand, who is on a tour of Europe with a friend. "There was panic. It was crazy."

Hugo Simons, Hasselt's head of emergency medical planning, told VRT radio that three people had died, 11 had been severely injured and 60 had sustained light injuries as a result of the storm.

Organizers estimated that 60,000 people were at the three-day festival, which started Thursday, when the storm broke. Many were streaming out of the grounds after the storm, which turned the festival site into a scene of mud and destruction within about 10 minutes.

Video from the site showed stage equipment dangling in high winds as rain-soaked concertgoers at the music festival ran for cover. Trees and branches all around the area were downed, evidence of the sudden ferocity of the winds.

Ambulances ferried the seriously injured to nearby hospitals. Some of those lightly injured were treated at a local sports complex.

More than 20 ambulances were dispatched to the festival ground.

Indiana incident

This was the second deadly incident at an outdoor festival in a week. On Saturday, parts of a stage collapsed at the Indiana State Fair in Indianapolis, killing five people and injuring dozens when winds of up to 96 kilometres per hour hit the site.

MUSIC FESTIVAL, KILLING 3

PINO MISURACA/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Revelers mill around near a collapsed marque tent after a storm hit the Pukkelpop music festival in Kiewit Hasselt, Belgium, on Thursday leaving at least three people dead and 70 others seriously injured, firefighters said. Two stages collapsed, one falling on the concert-goers. Some giant screens also fell down and trees were uprooted by the fierce storm.

'Utter confusion, mass panic,' concertgoer says

Images of the disaster showed fallen lighting scaffolds. Dutch NOS television reporter Rick Hoogkamp, who was attending the concert Thursday, said several tents collapsed. An AP reporter saw concession stands blown down and a large food tent spread across the ground.

One of those who watched a tent collapse was Laura Elegeert, 17, of Saint-Nicolas, Belgium.

"It was utter confusion, mass panic," Elegeert said. "People were trying to get out of this tent that collapsed by using their pocket knives and cutting holes in the fabric."

9 died in 2000

▶ In 2000, nine people were crushed to death and 43 injured at the same festival during a Pearl Jam concert.

Two cranes were brought in to try to lift the large tent late Thursday, but the ground appeared too swamped for them to reach the area.

Chokri Mahassine, the organizer of the festival, said, "We have for now put the festival on hold until we understand the situation completely."

You don't always get what you pay for – especially when it comes to insurance

Are You Paying Too Much?

The motto "you get what you pay for" used to be true of most things, but the times, they are changin', and this is no longer true for many things, most notably car insurance. In fact, you could be paying hundreds, or even thousands of dollars more than you should for your coverage.

How is this possible? It is somewhat complicated to explain, but, to sum it up: Insurance companies base their rates on their experience with similar driver profiles and cars. Since no two companies' experiences are exactly the same, it is rare that different companies will give you the same potential insurance premium for your profile and car.

Experience Counts

It has been statistically proven that drivers over 50 years of age have fewer accidents and tickets than the average, and this means that there are more potential savings to be found for more experienced drivers. In fact, some companies actually specialize in serving the mature market, so it's definitely worth comparing rates.

Loyalty May Not Pay

If you are getting a loyalty discount you might be thinking that you are better off staying with your current insurance provider. This might be true, but it's impossible to be certain without doing some research. You just might find that the potential savings far outweigh any loyalty discount being offered.

I inhaled, provincial Tory leader admits

Bill Clinton, Barack Obama, Dalton McGuinty did it
Now Tim Hudak says that he, too, has smoked pot

TANYA TALAGA/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ PC Leader Tim Hudak admits to reporters Thursday that he used to smoke pot when he was in university. And he inhaled.

With a fall election on the horizon, the Ontario Tory leader told reporters Thursday he was wondering when the question would come up.

The answer is yes, he lived a "pretty normal life" growing up and smoked — and inhaled — marijuana in his younger days.

Tim Hudak, who was asked the question while touting a campaign promise to create a registry for homes that have been used as grow-ops or meth labs, added he hasn't lit up "in some time."

The 43-year-old says he doesn't support the decriminalization of small amounts of marijuana because "drug use is wrong" and grow-ops create health hazards.

McGuinty, Ontario's straitlaced premier, has also admitted to trying marijuana in the past.

Police: Norwegian killer called two times

- Breivik tried to surrender twice, according to report
- First phone call came 26 minutes before the arrest

The man behind the Norway attacks that killed 77 people last month hung up twice on authorities after calling to surrender during the shooting at a youth camp on Utoya island, police said Thursday.

The first phone call came 26 minutes before officers arrested Breivik, who identified himself as the commander in an anti-communist resistance movement, police said.

"I am at Utoya at the moment. I want to surrender," he said, according to a transcript distributed at a news conference.

Local police chief Sissel Hammer said "the operator took the conversation seriously and called back. No one answered."

Breivik called again one minute before being captured and asked to be transferred to the commander of the anti-terror police unit.

"I am a commander in the Norwegian resistance movement," the shooter said. "I have fulfilled my operation, so I want to ... surrender."

Once again, Breivik hung up, but he surrendered to police one minute later.

Anders Behring Breivik's lawyer Geir Lippestad told Norwegian daily Verdens Gang that the self-confessed killer said he shot at two groups of young people at Utoya and also fired over the lake in between two phone calls.

Police officials also said that based on information they received from calls about the shooting on the island, they believed at the time that two to five attackers were involved.

Bank worker walked off with $4.3M: FBI

Arrested in Mexico Aug. 1 Indicted Wednesday by grand jury in Anchorage

An Anchorage bank employee embezzled more than $4 million the old-fashioned way — by carrying it out of the building, according to U.S. federal prosecutors.

Gerardo Adan Cazarez Valenzuela, 26, is charged with stuffing $4.3 million into computer boxes and wheeling them out of a KeyBank vault on a rolling cart.

Details of the case were revealed in an affidavit filed by FBI agent Susan Cusack based on bank surveillance equipment, interviews with employees and admissions by Valenzuela.

Valenzuela drove to his home and transferred the cash to duffel bag suitcases, according to the affidavit, then drove to the Ted Stevens Anchorage International Airport, where two days before he had arranged for a private charter.

‘Dark pool’ market to debut in Canada

Goldman Sachs SIGMA X system would be the 11th in country Move comes as competition intensifies

Another new stock market is set to debut in Canada, this time in the hands of New York investment bank Goldman Sachs.

The Wall Street firm said Thursday that it will bring its stock market system, SIGMA X, to Canada at an unspecified date.

The SIGMA system is what’s known as a “dark pool” market — one that would allow investors to anonymously buy and sell stocks on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The stock market will be financed by numerous investors in addition to Goldman, including brokers, hedge funds and institutions, it said.

“The growth potential of the Canadian equity market is significant,” said Todd Lopez, managing director and co-head of Americas sales, Goldman Sachs Electronic Trading.

“We believe unique, alternative pools of liquidity will continue to play an important role in the Canadian market’s development.”

Concentration

- Maple’s potential acquisition of TMX would merge it with Maple’s market operations, combing the country’s two biggest competitors and raising concerns among some about concentration.

The move comes as competition in the stock market space intensifies.

TMX Group, operator of Canada’s major exchanges, including the TSX, is in the middle of a hostile takeover bid for the company.

The bidder, Maple Group Acquisition Corp., which groups a number of financial institutions and pension funds, is giving investors until the end of September to decide whether they want to tender their shares under the $3.8-billion offer.

Goldman said in a release that its trading system would “provide a broad source of Canadian equity liquidity.”

IBM inching closer to human-brain chip

- Such a computer decade or more away, expert says
- Technology so far can steer simulated car, play Pong

IBM Corp. announced Thursday it has built two prototype chips that it says process data more like how humans digest information than the chips that now power PCs and supercomputers.

The chips represent a significant milestone in a six-year-long project that has involved 100 researchers and some $41 million US in funding from the U.S. government's Defence Advanced Research Projects Agency, or DARPA. That's the Pentagon arm that focuses on long-term research and previously brought the world the Internet.

The chips' ability to adapt to types of information that it wasn't specifically programmed to expect is a key feature.

"You have to throw out virtually everything we know about how these chips are designed."
DHARMENDRA MODHA, PROJECT LEADER FOR IBM RESEARCH

The project is part of the same research that led to IBM's announcement in 2009 that it had simulated a cat's cerebral cortex, the thinking part of the brain.

Using progressively bigger supercomputers, IBM had previously simulated 40 per cent of a mouse's brain in 2006, a rat's full brain in 2007, and one per cent of a human's cerebral cortex in 2009.

RE: No wildlife vet to aid dying deer, published Aug. 16, 2011

I am a veterinarian doctor from Colombia. I was shocked by this news and not being able to figure out why a situation like this is happening in a country like Canada.

In my 30 years of experience as a wild animals doctor and co-founder of the Foundation Against Animal Cruelty in Bogota, Colombia, I had never heard a case where the authorities make irrational decisions that go against animal rights.

I am pretty sure in Toronto there are hundreds of qualified immigrant doctors looking for a volunteer position available to take care of wild animals in Canada. Unfortunately, none of these institutions realize that there are overqualified people willing to contribute with our knowledge and experience so that a situation like this never happens in Canada. Finally, I would like you to think about Mahatma Gandhi's idea that "the greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated."

We know you can't go home, but you can't stay here

Greek authorities are threatening legal action against a southern Athens municipality that allegedly built a new cemetery in a nature conservation area after running out of grave space.

An Environment Ministry statement says the new Glyfada municipal cemetery was built on the site of a burnt forest last week, without a permit and in breach of environmental, health and zoning laws.

Glyfada officials countered that they acted "out of despair" as their existing graveyard is full.

The ministry said Thursday it wanted all eight graves removed and their occupants reinterred, following talks with Church authorities.

Cemetery congestion is common in Greece, where most of the dead are buried in graves that must be vacated after a three-year period. The powerful Orthodox Church opposes cremation.

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

A day full of gimmicks

One Day moves too slow and its romantic premise feels contrived
Crouse and Breslin butt heads over the chemistry of Hathaway and Sturgess

Richard: Mark, One Day is many things. It's a style parade of hair and clothes from the past two decades and it's an interesting take on how to tell a story but it's also a little disconnected. I think the year-by-year format — we drop in on Jim and Anne every July 15 for 20 years — is the culprit. It begins to feel gimmicky by the early '90s and by the millennium it almost feels as though it is playing out in real time.

MB: Finally, a movie that asks the question: What happens when an insufferable prig meets an egomaniacal twit? The answer is: very little, at least until 15 years has passed. In the '70s, there was a film and play called Same Time Next Year, which used a similar gimmick. In that film, a couple meet every year at the same time for a sexy romp, and slowly fall in love. In this movie, the couple start off with a romantic friendship, and then consummate the relationship after many years. And there, Richard, is the indisputable evidence of why the '70s was a much better time.

RC: Ha! I'll give you that this might have been a very different story had it been set in 1974, but I thought the decades-long dance they do as they pretend not to be in love showed the chemistry between the two. The film has some serious structural flaws but the spark between the two of them forgives many of the film's sins.

MB: Spark? What spark? I could barely see what they saw in each other. He's a jerk, at least until half the movie's over, and she's a puritan with bad taste in eyewear. And her accent is as fake as the rest of this sentimental travelogue through time. The movie did make London look very appealing, though, so I kept wishing that a neutron bomb would go off, wiping the cast from the screen and leaving all the gorgeous architecture intact.

RC: I clearly liked this more than you! I thought Sturgess brought an easy charm to the character, and his transformation from happy-go-lucky student to lounge lizard TV presenter is effective. Hathaway's appeal lies in the intelligence she brings to her characters. Here she plays a smarty-pants young woman set adrift in life, someone who is slowly finding the self confidence to be who she really wants to be. In Hathaway's hands you never doubt that she'll get there.

MB: Usually, I'd love to be in Anne Hathaway's hands. But not this time. And she wore the same T-shirt in bed in 1988 as she did in 1992. Did she ever wash that thing? Ewwww!

ATTEND MOVIES, CONCERTS EVEN IF YOU'RE ON A BUDGET

Samantha Lockhart recently earned a bachelor of arts degree with a major in political studies from the University of Manitoba and has been accepted into the one-year bachelor of journalism program at the University of King's College.

While the 21-year-old Winnipeg resident is working hard to save money to further her education, she isn't sacrificing entertainment to do so. Lockhart shares these tips on how to save money on music and movies:

- $ Take advantage of Tuesday specials at the movies, which is usually a choice of free popcorn or half price on a movie ticket.
- $ Buy an annual entertainment book full of coupons and look for movie and music discounts.
- $ If you work in a mall, some music stores and theatres that are part of the mall might offer an employee discount, typically 10 per cent off the regular price.
- $ Newspapers often give away free tickets to movie premieres.
- $ Rent DVDs in bulk and check out classics, which are usually cheaper than new releases.
- $ Host a movie night at home with friends, where everyone pitches in $5 to rent a movie and buy snacks.
- $ Students who sign up for certain cellphone plans get a free one-year subscription to download an unlimited amount of free music.
- $ For concerts, check online classifieds, especially close to the event date, when people who can no longer attend are desperate to get rid of their tickets.

STICK TO A BUDGET

- A budget is a tool that gives you an opportunity to monitor your spending habits and make adjustments as you go along. For example, if you've picked up a new part-time job, your budget should change to reflect this extra income.
- The key part of a budget is matching your money coming in and your money going out to make your required payments. For example, if you get a lump sum of money at the beginning of the year, you need to make it last over two semesters. Calculate out how much you need every month for fixed obligations like rent, food, utility bills, and transportation, and put that into a "need-to-pay" account.
- A budget will help you live within your means and avoid unnecessary debt. *my*Finance-Tracker is a new online customizable financial management tool that will help keep tabs on your monthly spending so you know exactly where your money is going and how to budget properly. Paul Rudd is the ‘Idealistic’ idiot

Actor wreaks havoc on his sisters’ lives in new film

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
MWN IN HOLLYWOOD

HANDOUT

▶ Paul Rudd stars in Our Idiot Brother.

The dreaded pink eye

- While none of the actors describe themselves as particularly Method, Emily Mortimer was extremely helpful in establishing the family dynamic from the get-go.
- “Emily came to set with pink eye on the first day,” Elizabeth Banks remembers. “It was repulsive and made us not want to touch her. It really was sweet, it was like she did it for us.”

Call it the Trouble with Hippies.

Paul Rudd’s new film, Our Idiot Brother, follows a hapless idealist (Rudd) who, after serving time for selling pot to a uniformed police officer, proceeds to crash with each of his three sisters (played by Elizabeth Banks, Emily Mortimer and Zooey Deschanel), wreaking havoc on their carefully constructed New York City lives in the process.

Rudd admits that, despite the damage Ned creates in the film, his outlook on life is admirable.

“It’s an idealistic way to live,” he says. “I think we try and strive for that not judgmental, not cynical way of an open and honest way of living. The world doesn’t really function like that. Families don’t really function like that. It’s a balancing act.”

The trick to achieving the film’s believable bond between the siblings, Rudd insists, was not having any money to make the film.

“I’m sure it bummed them out a little bit sometimes, but we benefited from being a pretty low-budget movie and not having trailers and places for people to escape and be alone and forced everyone to hang out with each other all the time,” he says.

“It could have backfired and they could have hated each other, but luckily everyone really enjoyed each other.”

For some in the cast, though, it wasn’t just the working conditions that made the story accessible. Banks admits she felt some serious déjà vu when she read the script.

“I am the oldest, bossiest daughter of a family of four. I have two sisters, one of whom is a divorced mother of two, and one of whom lives in Brooklyn with four roommates,” she says.

“I have a 26-year-old brother who sells pizza and maybe something else while delivering those pizzas. Yes, I really connected to the film in a deep way.”

She could also relate to Ned, she admits, as she’s no stranger to causing strife by saying the wrong thing to the wrong family member.

A particular email about her sister’s wedding comes to mind: “Basically I was like, ‘When we go to the wedding, we’re just going to make the best of a bad situation.’ My sister ended up on the email forward and wrote me back, reply-all, ‘I really wish I didn’t know this was how you were coming to my wedding,’” she says.

“Needless to say, I was not in the wedding at my sister’s wedding, nor was my other sister.”

Movie reviews

Spy Kids: All the time in the world in 4D
Genre: Action
Director: Robert Rodriguez
Stars: Jessica Alba, Jeremy Piven, Joel McHale

When Alexa Vega, star of the original Spy Kids, pops up on-screen in Spy Kids 4 as a full-fledged adult, it will make you feel old. Yes, it's been 10 years since the first film, and while Robert Rodriguez's grasp of micro-budget effects has come a long way, his knack for kid-friendly stories hasn't. The jokes are groan-inducing even for the elementary school set, and the less said about the Aroma-Scope scratch-and-sniff cards given out the better, except to point out that nearly half of the smell cues are flatulence-related. While it might seem futile to critique the script of a movie like this, it's truly amazing that Rodriguez managed to work the word 'time' into almost every line of dialogue. The movie also features Jeremy Piven in multiple roles, which really should be enough of a red flag on its own, and Ricky Gervais as the voice of a robot dog that speaks exclusively in fart jokes and Ricky Gervais stand-up bits.

NED EHRBAR

Conan the Barbarian
Genre: Action
Director: Marcus Nispel
Stars: Jason Momoa, Ron Perlman, Rose McGowan

The most impressive thing about Conan the Barbarian is star Jason Momoa's rear end, which can practically stand up on its own. The same, sadly, can't be said for Marcus Nispel's movie. It's a straight-forward revenge tale that jogs unenthusiastically from action set-piece to action set-piece, borrowing from enough of its predecessors to make the whole thing feel overly generic. The movie's first section, though, is killer, and the highlight is Conan as a boy, played by the ferocious Leo Howard. The resemblance to Momoa is striking, but Howard's barbarian is just that much more animalistic and feral. But when your hero is already a fearless warrior who can behead a whole gang of armed savages twice his size, where else can you possibly go with the character? The only real difference between Conan at the beginning of the movie and Conan at the end is that he's older and played by a different actor. Maybe an entire movie about a preteen barbarian would've been a better idea.

Fright Night 3D
Genre: Comedy/Horror
Director: Craig Gillespie
Stars: Anton Yelchin, Colin Farrell, David Tennant

Even if you're a devotee of director Tom Holland's original 1985 vampire comedy Fright Night, you might still be able to groove on Craig Gillespie's contemporary 3D remake. When Fright Night 3D comes into its own, adding new twists and relying on its novel setting and the strengths of its new cast and characters, only the most dour pundit would argue the movie is nothing short of a breath of fresh fetid air.

CHRIS ALEXANDER

Whirligig
Genre: Comedy/Drama
Director: Chaz Thorne
Stars: Gregory Smith, Fiona Highet

Filmmaker Chaz Thorne lays the quirkiness on thick in his new comic-drama Whirligig. When an anxiety-ridden ex-Mormon returns to Nova Scotia, he hits rock bottom alongside his eccentric parents and their equally dysfunctional neighbours. While star Gregory Smith is a bright light of abnormality, the story's novelty soon grows cumbersome.

See it twice | See it now | Worth watching | Yawn | Don't bother

You are Here
Genre: Drama
Director: Daniel Cockburn
Stars: Tracy Wright, Shannon Beckner, Richard Clarkin

Toronto video artist Daniel Cockburn transitions into feature filmmaking with a movie designed to tease his audience's brain with a stream of quandaries, quirks, and ideas. There isn't much of a plot, but Cockburn describes his film as a meta detective story and that's close enough. Tracey Wright stars (in her final role) as an information archivist who inexplicably collects and obsessively archives lost documents. Other characters have similarly bizarre storylines and all of them are stuck in some sort of existential crisis. It's an equally confounding and intriguing movie designed more to provoke debate than provide any sort of concise or meaning or closure. For anyone anxious to have their brain wrung out like a sponge, it's a must see.

PHIL BROWN

Senna
Genre: Documentary
Director: Asif Kapadia
Stars: Ayrton Senna

A surprisingly gripping documentary made up entirely of contemporary footage, Senna tells the story of Formula One racecar driver Ayrton Senna. The young Brazilian rose to prominence in the 1980s, eventually becoming teammates with World Champion Alain Prost. But the competitive nature and pride imbued in each driver would spark a rivalry unlike any the sport had ever seen. Filled with enough drama to keep even the most skeptical motor sports fan engages, Senna is documentary filmmaking at its finest.

IAN GORMELY

Griff the Invisible
Genre: Comedy
Director: Leon Ford
Stars: Ryan Kwanten, Maeve Dermody, Marshall Napier

Griff The Invisible is an Australian indie twist on the DIY superhero movie like Kick Ass. What makes the film unique is that there's no suggestion that Griff ever has a chance of becoming a hero. Despite his costumed antics, the character is clearly delusional and the film works best when focused more on the bizarre love story between Griff and an equally unbalanced young woman than the crime fighting theatrics. Though the delusional would-be super hero has been done before, writer/director Leon Ford's interest lies more in his character's unhinged mental state and the sad reality that implies. That shift in focus makes for a far more resonant and emotionally complex movie than the gentle comedy appears to be at first glance.

PHIL BROWN

Terri
Genre: Comedy
Director: Azezel Jacobs
Stars: John C. Reilly, Jacob Wysocki

A hit at the Sundance Film Festival earlier this year, Terri is a well-paced, subtle comedy about coming of age — in a world where the misfit never really ends up fitting in.

Jacob Wysocki as the chubby title character, gives a fascinating unsympathetic performance, but its star John C. Reilly as an eager, but flawed principal that really makes Terri a fantastic, nuanced movie worth watching.

The Lady Holmes

Metro recently sat down with the star of Guillermo Del Toro's latest film Don't Be Afraid of the Dark

HEIDI PATALANO
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Joey Potter has grown up. The 31-year-old woman who became famous for that character on Dawson's Creek so many years ago, is now poised and unflappable as she sits in New York's Waldorf Astoria, sweetly answering questions about her latest film, Don't Be Afraid of the Dark.

Produced by the auteur of gore, Guillermo Del Toro, Dark centres around a young girl named Sally (Bailee Madison) who joins her father (Guy Pearce) and his new girlfriend (Holmes) to live at an old restored mansion, which, Sally learns, harbours some creepy ancient creatures who are dying for some company.

"They're like cockroaches but worse because they're slimy, so it's like half-maggot, half cockroach," Holmes says of the predatory homunculi.

Where the actress, who has been married to fellow actor Tom Cruise for five years this November, is heavy on charm — she even thanked us for coming out in the rain to support the film — she's light on candour. Holmes is one to, as we say in the business, "stick to the script" — not that we blame her.

"It was a real thrill to work with Guillermo," she says when asked how doing this movie compared with the horror movies she did earlier in her career.

"I loved the characters and the family dynamics that really bring the audience in. Then, all of a sudden something scary happens and you realize you're on this thrill ride."

But how about those films like I Know What You Did Last Summer? She continues:

"I started my career with The Ice Storm — that was a character-driven slice-of-life drama and horror. I feel fortunate. I've worked with a lot of really good actors and filmmakers, so it was nice to have that opportunity again in this picture."

Young actor steps into a king's shoes

- Jamie Campbell Bower set to play fabled King Arthur in Camelot
- Show imagines when Arthur was just a 'scared and confused' child

METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

JONATHAN HESSION

▶ Jamie Campbell Bower, left, as Arthur and Peter Mooney as Kay in Camelot. The show airs Tuesday nights at 9 p.m. (9:30 NT) on CBC this fall.

Jamie Campbell Bower wonders if it's something other than his talents that helped him land roles in two of Hollywood's most successful fantasy film franchises — Harry Potter and the Twilight saga — not to mention the role of legendary King Arthur in the new Starz epic, Camelot.

"Maybe I have a look," he ponders about his career in the genre. "Do you think I have a look?"

After posing a few questions about tackling the iconic Arthur to the 22-year-old, we're pretty sure his appeal is more about charisma and confidence than just that smouldering stare.

What kind of king do you play in Camelot?

A child. Torn from his home, from everything he thought he knew, and thrown into a position of great power. Our Arthur, to begin with, is scared and confused, but throughout the first season, and hopefully subsequent, he grows and develops into a man and into a true king.

How does he differ from other incarnations of the character?

Not many interpretations of the myth pick up the story [with Arthur as a boy]. People may have this preconceived idea of what King Arthur should be like — a big, bearded, brutish hero, but what we have done is add realism to the story.

If — because there is no factual evidence that this man existed — he did exist, Arthur would have been a boy at some point, and what episodic television allows us is the time to explore the realities of life and a development of character.

Did you have any apprehensions in bringing this legend to life?

Yes, of course. With great power comes great responsibility. It was terrifying for me but I love a challenge.

Have you experienced any criticism for your interpretation of Arthur? Fantasy fans can be a tough crowd.

Yes. I think there are critics out there who have, like I said before, a preconceived idea of who this character is and they are not willing to change that. The whole idea of our show is progression. It should be exciting to see this character grow. I suppose you can't please everyone.

Why do you think the fantasy genre is experiencing so much popularity right now?

Above anything, people want to be taken away from the monotony of daily life. They want to invest in characters. People want to be entertained. I don't think it's a genre thing per say — it should be all about story.

SOCIAL TIME CAPSULE. Sunday's two-hour documentary special 1 Day features a diverse group of Canadians from across the country whom CBC cameras followed from midnight to midnight on April 30, 2011. During that 24-hour period, they relate what is happening in their lives that day, and in their own words. The idea is to paint a portrait of Canada on one day and deliver a social time capsule of sorts. (CBC)

Kate Winslet has joined with fellow British actresses Emma Thompson and Rachel Weisz to form the "British Anti-Cosmetic Surgery League," with all three vowing to never go under the knife, she tells the Telegraph.

"I will never give in. It goes against my morals, the way that my parents brought me up and what I consider to be natural beauty," she says.

"I am an actress, I don't want to freeze the expression of my face."

Gwyneth Paltrow

Gwyneth Paltrow, meanwhile, thinks there could be certain situations when some cosmetic surgery isn't out of the question.

"Before I didn't care about it. And I still refuse to use silicone, Botox or other of those gimmicks out of pure vanity," she tells Germany's OK! Magazine. "But a breast correction after breast feeding, why not? There's actually nothing else to restore the original condition, isn't there?"

CBS has no comment on the threats. METRO

Hollywood holds different standards

Jennifer Hudson is thrilled with the weight she's lost, but she didn't always feel fat.

"I didn't even know I was considered plus-sized until I came to Hollywood," she tells Self magazine.

"In the neighbourhood I'm from in Chicago, a 16 is normal. But in Hollywood everyone looks exactly the same, so I stood out." The American Idol runner-up has shed 80 pounds since the birth of her son, David, in 2009.

"I'm prouder of my weight loss than my Oscar," Hudson, who is now a Weight Watchers spokeswoman, says.

Sandwiches: The next generation

These combinations give new life to the lunch item that typically includes ham and cheese Experiment with different and unique fillings

MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lunch box sandwiches don't have to default to ham and cheese or peanut butter and jelly.

There are plenty of options to mix things up and keep them interesting. Ditching the sliced bread is a good place to start.

Consider making sandwiches on a piece of baguette (or multiple smaller sandwiches on thin baguette slices).

Or if crusty bread isn't your kid's favourite thing, try folding or rolling the fillings in a piece of lavash or naan flatbread.

You can also get creative with fillings.

Sliced meats can be combined with yogurt or cream cheese spreads, and cucumber sandwiches can be made more nutritious and filling by adding hummus.

Cucumber Hummus Sandwich

Preparation:

1. Spread the hummus over half of the naan. Drizzle honey over the other half of the naan. Arrange the cucumber slices over hummus, then sprinkle everything with salt and pepper. Fold the naan in half to form a sandwich.

Chicken and Broccoli Alfredo Sliders

Preparation:

1. In a small bowl, mix together broccoli and alfredo sauce.
2. Arrange chicken over 3 of the baguette slices. Top with broccoli-alfredo mix. Top with a piece of cheese, cut to fit, and remaining bread.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shopping List:

Cucumber Hummus Sandwich
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) hummus
- 1 piece naan flatbread
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) honey
- 1/2 small cucumber, sliced
- Salt and ground black pepper, to taste

Chicken and Broccoli Alfredo Slider
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) cooked broccoli, chopped
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) prepared alfredo sauce
- 6 small baguette slices
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) cooked chicken meat (such as from a rotisserie chicken)
- 3 slices mozzarella cheese

Kids vs. veggies

Limit the stress of getting kids to eat their veggies with these tips.

- Repetition is key. Some kids need to be introduced to a new food 12 times before trying it.
- Offer variety when cooking meals by including cooked and raw veggies.
- Luckily, veggies and fruits come in a rainbow of colours. Consider assigning a new colour to each week's meal plan and let the kids weigh in.
- Try prepared foods. For young kids, mixing pureed or minced vegetables into foods like meatballs, dips and stews is a good strategy. NEWS CANADA/ PC.CA

The art of smart snacking.

Ham Pinwheel

Preparation:

1. Spread the vegetable cream cheese over the lavash flatbread. Arrange the ham over the cream cheese, leaving 2.5 cm (1 inch) of cream cheese exposed on each end.
2. Arrange the roasted red peppers across 1 end. Starting with end that has roasted red peppers, roll up the lavash. Use the cream cheese at the other end to hold the roll-up together. Trim ends and slice roll into 2.5-cm (1-inch) thick slices to form pinwheels.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients:

- 45 ml (3 tbsp) vegetable cream cheese spread
- 1 rectangular lavash flatbread
- 3 slices deli ham
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) sliced roasted red peppers

South Africa in a wine glass

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

One of the questions I get asked the most is which wine producing country I enjoy visiting. Winemakers have a habit of growing their grapes in pretty interesting places, so it's tough to answer.

I've had adventures in Italy, Spain, Argentina, California and, most recently, France. That said, my time in South Africa may have been the best combination of new and mind-blowing experiences.

Sadly, South African wines have been limping along in popularity over the last decade. Without a major powerhouse producer that draws people down its liquor store aisle on a regular basis, the selection across the country is best known as a population of individuality — where standalone wines with unique personalities and funky names rule.

Douglas Green's 2010 The Beach House ($9.73 - $11.99) is a perfect example. A blend of Sauvignon Blanc and Semillon, it's a relaxed white with fresh gooseberry aromatics and a crisp backbone of green fruit massaged by subtle honeyed undertones that taste like liquid summer. The Hoxton opened two Saturdays ago, and in a short stretch has already amassed considerable buzz. Tonight they're launching their Friday nights, and doors will be opening for the first-ever installment. Tonight's event is hosted by yours truly, and I couldn't be more psyched for what will surely become the hottest new Friday night ticket. Doors open at 10pm at 69 Bathurst Street.

Argonauts hang on to beat Roughriders

- Saskatchewan nearly erases 20-point deficit, but final drive falls short
- Boyd rushes for two touchdowns
- Prefontaine had three field goals

FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Argonauts defensive lineman Ron Flemons wraps up Roughriders quarterback Darian Durant.

Cory Boyd ran for two touchdowns as the Toronto Argonauts held on for a thrilling 24-18 win over the Saskatchewan Roughriders on Thursday night to halt a six-game losing streak.

Toronto (2-6) earned its first home win over Saskatchewan (1-7) since 2005, a span of six contests, before a Rogers Centre gathering of 20,482 with an open roof on a beautiful summer evening.

The victory was also the Argos' first here since a 17-13 decision over Winnipeg on Sept. 19, 2010, again a six-game stretch.

ARGOS	RIDERS

But it didn't come easily as Saskatchewan's Darian Durant erased a 24-4 deficit by hitting Chris Getzlaf and former Argo James Robinson on TD strikes of 70 and 21 yards, respectively. He smartly drove the Riders to the Toronto 19-yard line before twice failing to connect on the game-winning throw into the end zone, turning the ball over on downs with less than 20 seconds remaining.

The exciting ending notwithstanding, Greg Marshall's first season as a CFL head coach continues to be a trying one as the Riders — who've won the West Division title and appeared in the Grey Cup the last two years — have dropped four straight.

Saskatchewan's woes in southern Ontario this season continued after being humbled 33-3 in Hamilton on July 16.

Most alarming was how the Roughriders lost, with numerous untimely penalties. A big one came to start the second half when with Saskatchewan trailing 11-0, Durant's 37-yard completion to Getzlaf inside Toronto's 10-yard line was negated by a holding penalty.

TFC gets win in Panama

2	1
TFC	TAURO

Ryan Johnson and Julian de Guzman scored in the first half and Toronto FC held on for a 2-1 win over Panama's Tauro FC in CONCACAF Champions League group stage action Thursday.

Toronto is tied with fellow Major League Soccer team FC Dallas atop Group C at 1-0-0. Both teams have a goal differential of plus-1.

TFC took a 1-0 lead an the 21st minute when Johnson took advantage of poor Tauro defending, beating two defenders to get clear in the box and putting a left-footed shot past Tauro goalkeeper Alvaro Anzola.

Toronto took a 2-0 lead in the 24th minute as de Guzman's attempt from well outside the penalty area fooled Anzola, deflecting off the goalkeeper and into the net.

Tauro had a chance in the 37th minute, but defender Richard Eckersley headed the ball off the line after a Tauro lob beat TFC keeper Milos Kocic.

TFC was missing captain Torsten Frings, who was suspended after accumulating too many yellow cards.

Esks looking mortal

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

Nobody believed Edmonton could finish first in the West this season, not even the Eskimos, and seven weeks into the season reality is finally setting in.

The Esks followed their surprising 5-0 start with consecutive losses, culminating with a putrid four-point offensive performance in Montreal in their second consecutive loss.

After lighting up the scoreboard through that five-game win streak, the Esks have posted just 20 total points in the last two losses in which opponents have shut down the Green and Gold running game. With Ricky Ray forced to throw, opposing defences have narrowed their focus on pummeling the Edmonton quarterback, recording 10 sacks. In the last two games Jerome Messam has collected just 47 yards along the ground, a far cry from the first five games when he provided the Esks with a balanced and often unstoppable attack.

The Eskies get a reprieve this week against the B.C. Lions, before taking on the Calgary Stampeders in back-to-back contests starting Labour Day. A sweep and Calgary could be well on its way to first place in the West.

Argos leading the crawl to playoffs by a nose:
We're only one-third through the CFL schedule but it's hard to imagine B.C., Saskatchewan or Toronto deserving a berth in the playoffs in November, yet at least one will find a way.

The Argos may have the inside track, with four consecutive games against the Riders and Lions over the next month. A decent showing in the next four weeks could at least secure the Double Blue a crossover spot in the West.

No flipping way:
Give full credit to Saskatchewan's Hugh Charles for his athletic prowess in scoring three Touchdowns against Calgary last week, but can the man not count? His third TD left the hapless Riders 17 points (yes, 17!!!) behind Calgary on the scoreboard yet the last-place Roughies running back was celebrating with backflips. Add selfish behaviour to the long list of problems in Ridervile.

Then came news this week out of Regina that Charles has been sidelined with an injury. The Riders aren't disclosing details, but wouldn't it be ironic if it happened during one of those flip-flops.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Today, you would benefit from taking things at a slower pace.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Live for the moment and don't waste a second wondering if you should have done some things differently.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Times always change and you must change with them if you don't want to get left behind.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 There is always a simple explanation for life's great events, so stay calm and make the best of your situation.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 If you make some kind of mistake today, don't try to deny it. Fate is forgiving.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You should know by now that the worst rarely happens, and even when it does, it is rarely that bad.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Others may worry about you but come tomorrow you will be back to your best — and your best is very good.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You may be intensely ambitious and desperate to get ahead but today you must slow down a bit.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Sometimes, mistakes can be a learning tool. Keep that in mind.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Don't feel guilty about leaving until later a task that others say should have been done by now.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 It might be wise not to make many plans for the next few days. Everything is subject to change.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Something unexpected may happen, but it's not a good enough reason to hide. SALLY BROMPTON
